

OUR LEADERS ARE FAILING TO ACT OVER THE ECONOMY

Following the end of the political conference season we are left wondering what the point of it all was as no party leader has announced a workable plan to fix our failing economy.

With all the expertise available to them Brown, Cameron and Clegg have not said how they would run the economy without creating inflation and deflation and making bankers rich at our expense. Yet it can be done and they know it.

It seems to me that there is a conspiracy of silence between the banks - who created the system - and the politicians who allow it to continue. They refuse to reveal how their 'fractional reserve' banking system drains the life blood out of the economy by transferring wealth from the people to the banks, through the device of debt and interest.

The reality is that this two hundred year old system has reached its mathematical limits because we can no longer afford to pay the interest on the cumulative debt created. It is a 'pyramid' scheme that has collapsed and cannot be revived.

A new system must be established where the State - working through a 'Peoples Bank' - prints all the money needed to get the economy going again but links it to something of real value, like labour, so that unemployment and this boom and bust regime is eliminated .

Hitler achieved this, and in four years (1933-1937) transformed Germany from the poorest to the most prosperous nation in Europe.

I am not suggesting that we need another 'Hitler', but if the three main political parties are not prepared to act, then we must elect a new and enlightened breed of independent politicians who are not slaves to the party machine and the vested interest of the private banks that control our world.
